

New Faculty Orientation 2023

We are here to help you succeed

August 17, Campus Holiday Inn, Top Floor, High Above B

New Faculty Orientation Teams Page

---

9:00 - 10:15 am

Welcome Dr. Patti McDougall, Deputy Provost

Territory acknowledgement and welcome Elder Norman Fleury

Becoming and being the university the world needs: Bold ambitions and horizons Dr. Airini, Provost and Vice-President Academic

Key introductions

- Dr. Angela Jaime, Interim Vice-Provost Indigenous Engagement
- Dr. Jerome Cranston, Vice-Provost Students and Learning
- Ms. Ana Crespo-Martin, Director of Faculty Relations (standing in for Dr. Scott Walsworth, Vice-Provost, Faculty Relations)

Sharing Circles and Introductions

10:30 am -12:00 pm

Session #1 – Essential Teaching Requirements

Facilitated by Dr. Wendy James, Director, Gwenna Moss Centre for Teaching and Learning

Description: An interactive session from the Gwenna Moss Centre for Teaching and Learning supporting you in understanding what the expectations are for teaching practice and course design, student review of your course, and a teaching portfolio. Basic available technologies will also be discussed.

12:00 - 12:45pm

Lunch provided

12:45 - 2:15 pm

Session #2 – Succeeding in your First Year

Facilitated by Dr. Nancy Turner, Associate Vice Provost, Teaching and Learning

Description: A panel session providing an overview of what creates success in a faculty member's first year. This session will also provide an opportunity to ask any questions that you may have.

Members:

- Dr. Soo Kim, Professor, School of Rehabilitation Science
- Dr. Tom Yates, Associate Dean (Academic) and Associate Professor, College of Agriculture and Bioresources
- Dr. Gillian Muir, Dean, Western College of Veterinary Medicine

2:30 - 4:00 pm

Session #3 – Essentials for Starting your Research Program

Facilitated by Dr. Dawn Wallin, Associate Vice-President Research (Engagement) and members of the Office of the Vice President Research

Description: This session provides participants with a “birds eye view” of the research support services available for supporting new-to-USask faculty members in their efforts to become researchers that the world needs. This includes practical research considerations such as pre- and post-award support for funding applications; opportunities for international research collaborations; intellectual property and technology transfer; and creating and communicating a research profile. The session will also highlight institutional research initiatives that provide opportunities for researchers to engage in exciting interdisciplinary research that fosters our discovery mission.